Notes

1998-1999

Lecturer in Journalism, University of the South Pacific, Suva, Fiji.

Teaching television production and media law courses on campus as well as at news organisations throughout the South Pacific.

Extensive work with the Secretariat of the Pacific Community.

Initiated, wrote, directed and produced Marie, a documentary about a Pacific island woman living with AIDs.

Marie was broadcast in 12 countries including New Zealand, Fiji, Tonga, Samoa, PNG.

Subsequent to the documentary's release in October 1999, was invited to travel around Fiji with Marie Bopp du Pont doing advocacy work, funded by UNAIDS.

Marie herself was subsequently awarded Special Recognition by the United Nations and has worked with Nelson Mandela at his personal invitation.

Documentary was broadcast on Tagata Pasifika, December 2003 and Maori Television December 2004.

1997

Production and training consultant, Fiji Television Ltd.

Developed local content including a 5:30pm lifestyle show; the first indigenous language show for Fiji, as well as a fitness programme.

As executive producer of News, I was also a member of the five-person management team, and successfully lobbied the judiciary to allow television cameras in court rooms in Fiji.

Became known as a commentator on issues involving television, media law and justice with a weekly column Media Watch in the Daily Post newspaper.

Responsible for News budget and managed a team of 14 staff.

1991 - 1993

Press Secretary to Hon Maurice Williamson, Minister of Broadcasting, Communications and Associate Minister of Health. (Youngest person to have been a press secretary for a Minister in the parliamentary system).

1991 - 1992

Barrister and Solicitor, Russell McVeigh Bartleet & Co. specialising in litigation, media and contract law.

1987 - 1990

Freelance journalist for major New Zealand publications and placed in QANTAS Young Journalist Category.
