Notes

I was raised in a thespian family - both parents were with Wellington Repertory and Hutt Repertory as lead actors and appeared in every major production through the mid forties and fifties - my father Briton Chadwick was a highly respected actor with J.C. Williamson C., and was with the NZ Players for a number of years before the family left Wellington. He was also the chief narrator for the National Film Unit and a broadcaster for 22ZB, and masses of radio plays. My Parents revived the Whakatane Repertory Society and for the next ten years my life was a whirl of play readings and productions. My brother Robin has enjoyed professional success in both England (The Brothers) and as a theatre actor in America. I attended the Edna Harris Drama School in the seventies and did Vicky Yannotsou's Acting for Film and Television Course in the eighties before deciding on a music career. Lived and worked in Singapore for a number of years singing in a bar, and recording and coaching Asian Singers. My music career has been varied and rewarding, both here and overseas, winning some awards and fronting my own bands in both genres - Jazz and Country/Blues crossover, and fortunately my voice-over career has been sustaining.
